NORTH COLLINS, N. Y.

Grapes, Blackberries, Currants, Gooseberries and Red Raspberries in the cellar, where they can be packed and shipped any day. Can usually begin digging Strawberries and Black Raspberries the last of March to the first of April, or as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

There is no nursery better situated for transportation than is ours. On the west of us we have at Angola, the Lake Shore, the Nickel Plate, and the Pennsylvania Railroads, and the Erie ; the other way, with Buffalo but twenty miles distant—the best distributing point in the world. We also have the American, the Wells Fargo, the National, and Adams Express Companies.

Every effort will be made to please our patrons, and no trouble is too great for us to make every exertion to have stock reach its destination promptly and in good order.

No charge for packing, package, or cartage to depot. But, after delivery to forwarders, it must be with the understanding that we are released from all further responsibility. Should the stock happen to be delayed, wire or write us, and tracer will be immediately sent after them.

GUARANTEE.

We believe every plant stored in our cellar true to name. But we also recognize that no one is infallible, and should a mistake occur we will refund money paid for those that prove untrue or replace with such as are true. We are not otherwise liable to damages, and stock is sold with above understanding.

TERMS.

Parties not known to us who desire credit should always send references with order. All bills payable June 1st ; on all bills remaining unpaid at that date we will draw at sight without further notice, unless otherwise arranged.

NECTAR OR BLACK DELAWARE GRAPE.

The value of this variety has never been brought to the public notice, as it should and would have been had the originator lived to properly place it before the public. However, a few vines were distributed, and its excellent quality, health and hardiness attracted the attention of nearly all those who were so fortunate as to have the vines.

Read what they say of it where tested :

DEAR SIR—In reply to yours of recent date, offering to send us samples of the Nectar Grape, I will say that while we have this variety we will be pleased to receive samples and will be glad to hear how well they have kept We regard the grape as one of excellent quality, but did not know that it was a long-keeping variety.

Yours truly, W. J. GREEN.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY,

MR. E. WILLETT, Agricultural Experiment Station of Indiana,
North Collins, N. Y. LAFAYETTE, IND., 11,—29,—'99.

DEAR SIR—In reply to your favor of Nov. 6, which has been overlooked in some manner, I wish to say that we have been testing the Nectar grape for several years and find it a very fine early variety.

Very truly yours, J. TROOP, Dictated. Horticulturist.

The Rural New Yorker says of it: Little if anything has been said about the Nectar Grape (Caywood) as an early variety. It ripens at the Rural grounds with Moore's Early, or very nearly so. Every year we value the "Black Delaware," as it was called by Mr. Caywood before introduction, more and more. The berries are larger than those of the Delaware, black, with a heavy blue bloom, they cling to the stem well, are firm, and the thin skin is so firm that they are not so much injured by the bees as are other kinds. In quality, it is the best grape in the Rural's collection, ripening before September 5th, and there is no foxness about it. The vine is hardy, a strong grower, and as free from mildew as the berries are from rot."

The Rural New Yorker of Dec. 8, 1897, in its resume of hardy grapes which have been tried at the Rural grounds during the past twenty years, has this to say of the Nectar: Nectar originated with A. J. Caywood, of Marlboro, N. Y., in 1885. He at first called it Black Delaware, a very appropriate name. Vines were planted in the Rural grounds during May of 1888. We commend a trial of this early black grape to all of our readers. It is a little larger than Delaware, and of the finest, purest quality. The vine is healthy, hardy and productive. It is a cross between Concord and Delaware. Each by mail, postpaid, 2 year, 30c; 1 year, 20c.

Green's Early is being planted commercially as well as for family use, and proves a decided acquisition, a strong hardy grower; very productive, nearly as large as Niagara, of good quality and early as Moore's Early. By mail, postpaid, each, 2 year old, 30c; 1 year old, 20c.
